Fairy tale is a small story that explicitly refers to fairies. Such stories feature folkloric characters such as fairies, goblins, elves, trolls, giants or gnomes, and magic or enchantments. These stories will involve a far-fetched sequence of events. Reading Kids Fairy Tales presents the fairy tales in multiple volumes. Each volume comprises of fairy tales intended for the young. Beautifully illustrated with multicolored pictures, each story has been aptly supported by a little moral story. It is, definitely, a must for the kids!

After finishing he took a couple of gold coins in them. Then, he dozed off on the table. Seeing this, Jack crept out of the oven. He took some gold coins from the under the giant arm, quickly ran out of castle, and climbed do the beanstalk.

when the thieves entered the cave, they found Cassim. They realised he was trying to steal their gold. The captain ordered his men to kill Cassim. The thieves cut Cassim's body into four parts.

Then, he flew away to look for a suitable match. He reached the antemones but they were rather sour to his taste and didn't appease him.

My 1st Questions & Answers

Children are very curious by nature and their curiosity increases as they grow. The more they see around themselves the more they want to know. Now-a-days television programs and movies have become an important source that quenches their thirst of knowledge to a certain extent. However, these sources cannot provide to the point information, often confusing the children. Young age is the right time when we can imprint correct information in a child's tender brain. The series 'My First Questions & Answers' has been compiled keeping in view all these points. The series consists of twenty books – Wild Animals, Baby Animals, Birds, Bugs, Plants, Dinosaurs, Farm Animals, Apes, Space, Sports, Ocean, Rainforest, Reptiles & Amphibians, Cats, Dogs, Wonders, Earth, Vehicles, Communication, and Body Parts – each providing answers to the first questions a child might ask.

Bottlenose Dolphin

The Atlantic bottlenose dolphins are small cetaceans that have a long, beaklike snout, a falcate dorsal fin, and sharp teeth. They are Odontoceti and have one blowhole.

These dolphins live in small groups called pods containing anything from two or three individuals to more than a thousand.

Bottlenose dolphins are hunters that fish mostly at the surface of the water, eating mostly fish and squid.

They prefer warm to tropical water. They can be found in both the Pacific and Atlantic Oceans.

The bottlenose dolphin grows to be at most 12 feet long, sometimes weighing more than 1,400 pounds.

These dolphins consume 13 to 33 pounds of food per day.

Its body is sleek and streamlined and it can travel at speeds of up to 35 km per hour.

Calves of bottlenose dolphins are born in the water after a gestation period of one year and suckle for about 18 months. They remain with the mother for about four years.

Amazing Fact

They have many pairs of sharp, pointed teeth, distributed in both the upper and lower jaws.

It swims by moving its tail up and down. It hunts for its prey at the surface of the water.

The young are born in shallow water. A single calf is born, about 1 m long at birth.

Grizzly Bear

The grizzly bear also known as the silvertip bear, is a subspecies of brown bear. It lives in the uplands of western North America.

Grizzly bears reach weights of 180-825 pounds. They stand 2.44 m tall on their hind legs.

Males bears are on average 38% larger than females. This sexual dimorphism suggests that size is an important factor in the male's ability to successfully attract female bears.

The grizzly has a large hump over the shoulders, which is a muscle mass used to power the forelimbs in digging. Its hind legs are more powerful.

These bears can run at speeds of up to 40 kilometers per hour. However, they are slower running downhill rather than uphill. They can climb and swim as well.

Although grizzlies are of the order Carnivora, they are actually omnivores. Their diet consists of both plants and animals.

Grizzlies are considered by some experts to be the most aggressive bears, even by the standards of brown bears. Aggressive behaviour in grizzly bears is favored by numerous selection variables.

They chew down on 90 pounds of food each day.

The grizzly bear has forty-two teeth.

Grizzlies can be distinguished from most other brown bear subspecies by their proportionately longer claws and cranial profile which resembles that of the polar bear.

Grizzly bears are killed for their hides, teeth, claws and external organs, which are of use in the Asian medical market.

ENCYCLOPEDIA Q & A

Level 1
0-2 Years

A Picture Dictionary is often a great tool to teach kids and make them understand. It helps them to reorganise things quickly and easily. Children often learn best through visual techniques. Associating the words they say with images they see in their environment is often a great way to integrate verbal skills firmly into their mental processing.

God told Noah exactly how to make it. It was going to be longer than a football field and higher than a three story house. It was going to have one door and a window all around beneath the roof. God called the boat an "ark." This was going to be a big job for a 500 year old man. He had never even built a boat before, let alone, an ark. God told Noah just exactly how to do everything. Noah and his three sons, Shem, Ham and Japheth, began building the ark.

The woman said proudly, "I don't have a bucket, from my ancestor, Jacob, who gave us this well and drank water from it himself, with his sons and his cattle?" Jesus replied, "I never drinks this water from this well. I will be thirsty again."

But the person who drinks the water I will give will become a spring of water with eternal life."

Don't be afraid. I have a good news for you. God is born in Bethlehem. The angels guided them to the baby. The angels guided them to the baby. On seeing baby Jesus lying in the manger, they worshipped him. They said, "He is the savior of the world."

Look! We are in Eurasia. It is a combined landmass of Europe and Asia. Eurasians are music loving people because of their western upbringing. The Christian religion and festivals have a significant impact on their way of life. Eurasians have been creating their own style of hybrid dishes that involve blending exotic dishes from both Asia and Europe. English is mostly spoken by Eurasians. The Kristang language is also commonly spoken here. Look at these Lithuanian and Estonian singers from Eurasia who are singing a song.

I am thinking of a season when leaves turn into different colours like red, yellow and brown. After a while the leaves fall to the ground and are blown off the trees in the wind. They often make a carpet of leaves under the trees. I like to pick pumpkins, juicy apples and blackberries in this season. Birds eat berries in this season.

The sight of acorns dropping from the trees in autumn leaves leaves silently tumble down and come to rest. It is amazing to play with Kitty and bear with me in this season. I wear my shirt, pants and hat. Can you tell me I am thinking of?

Look! We are in Antarctica. It is located at the southernmost part of the Southern Ocean. It is the only continent on the earth which has no permanent water. In Antarctica, there is no life. The continent has no plants, animals or insects. The only life there is a few bacteria. A group of researchers brought me four rabbits in this season.

What do you think of the space center where a satellite is being launched? Look! This is a satellite. A satellite is an artificial object placed in orbit around the Earth or another planet in order to collect information or for communication. It receives and sends the communication and navigation signals with the ground station. The communication and research satellites receive and send the data and they send the research satellite, satellite receives and sends the data and they send the research satellite. The world's first artificial satellite, Sputnik 1, was launched by the Soviet Union in 1957.

"What kind of machine is this?" asks Brady. "It is an old car, Brady," tells me. "All first people used these kind of cars to travel. After few years the present type of cars were invented and since then people are using them." "Who invented the car?" Brady asks again. "Look at that picture Brady. He is Karl Benz. He invented the car in 1886," me tells Brady.

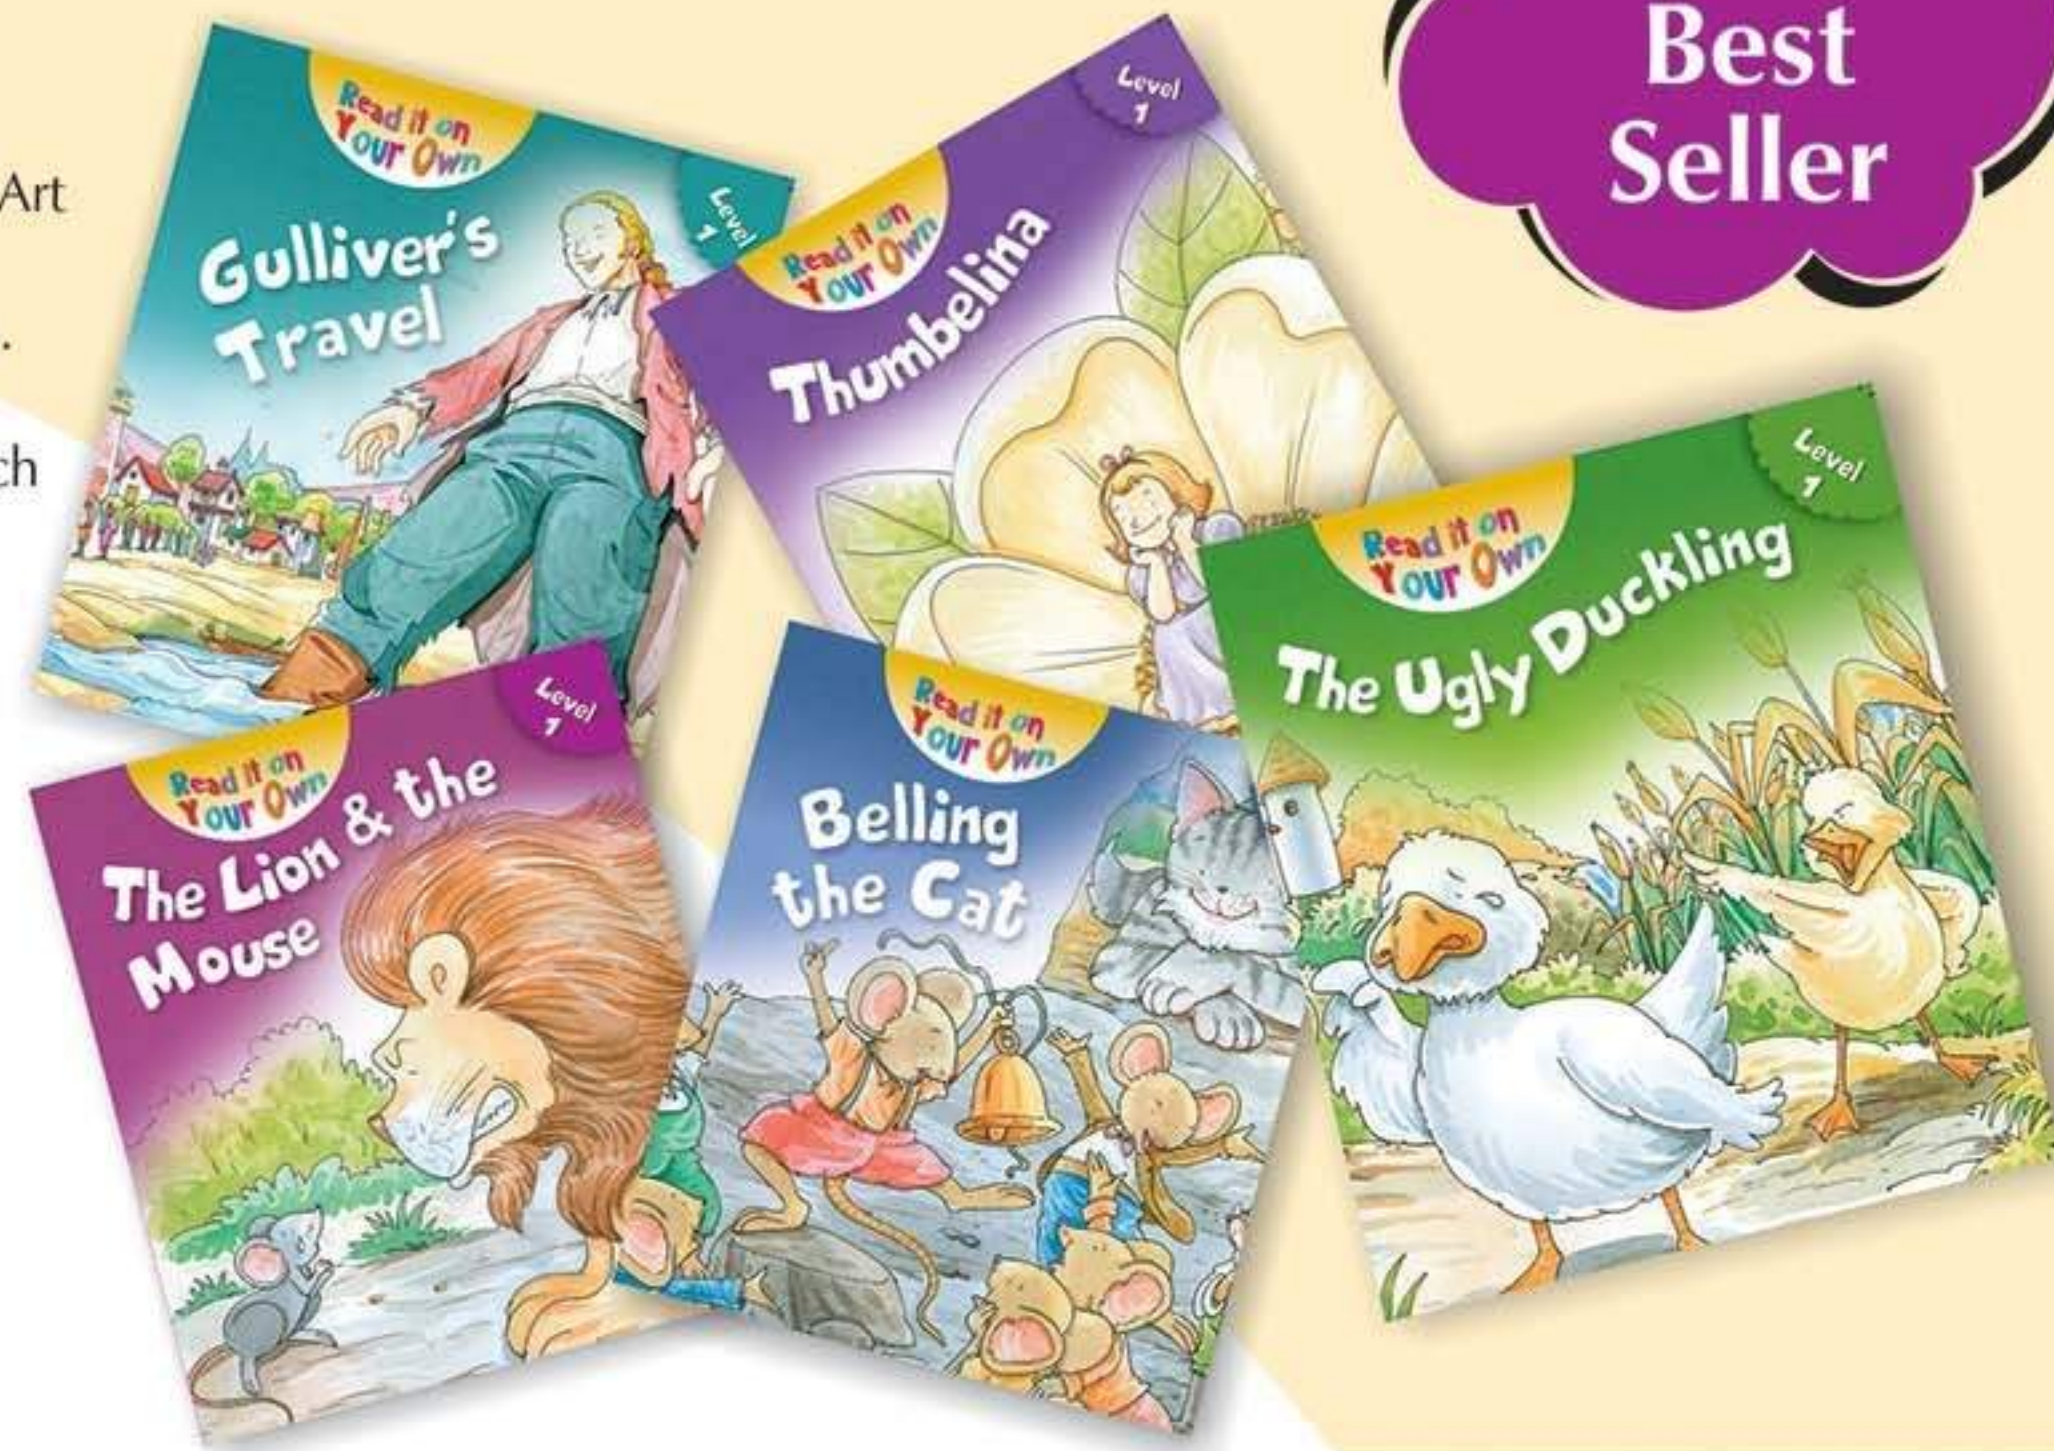

"What kind of machine is this?" asks Brady. "It is an old bicycle, Brady," tells me. "All first people used these kind of bicycles to travel. After few years the present type of bicycles were invented and since then people are using them." "Who invented the bicycle?" Brady asks again. "Look at that picture Brady. He is Karl Drais. He invented the bicycle in 1817," me tells Brady.

It was Dennis's last day at school and the driver dropped him to the school in his new car which was the latest model. Dennis loved to flaunt his cars in front of his friends. Dennis walked towards his classroom and sat in his seat. The teacher came inside the class and announced about the Graduation Day. Like any other young boy, Dennis was also very excited for his Graduation Day.

When the school got over, Dennis rushed to his home. He was very impatient for the whole day as he wanted to tell his dad about the Graduation Day and ask him for a nice gift. All the way to his home, Dennis was trying to decide what he should ask from his dad on his Graduation Day. As soon as Dennis reached his home, he told his parents about his Graduation Day. On seeing Dennis so excited, mom said, "Every young boy longs for his Graduation Day!"

Roger was totally exhausted. She was cold, wet, and hungry. She was going to die anyway, so what was the point of worrying. She looked up at the dotting sky, rare trees, falling haildrops, and sighed. She thought that this was the last time she was going to look at the sky and see the snow falling on earth. "Mom, mom where you are?" she cried loudly by looking around. There was no sound coming from anywhere. There was a complete pin-drop silence all around. "It seems that my mom would have gone to home by another route. So she is not listening," murmured the little baby.

Roger told his teacher that the first shoot of his sunflower plant had appeared. "That's great!" said the teacher. "Can I uproot it?" asked Roger. The teacher answered, "You still have to tend the plant for quite some time, till you are able to collect many seeds from just one sunflower!" "But the seeds have already started germinating!" said Roger. His teacher did not reply to Roger as he thought it was too early to comment upon the seed cycle. The shoots are just one day old. They have to travel a very long journey before they blossom into flowers. Roger was disappointed as he had planned to uproot the plant every now and then. Day by day, Roger grew increasingly impatient. He kept on asking his teacher about his desire to uproot the plant. Mom and dad kept noticing the plant. One day, Roger saw the sunflower's another seeds. He was very happy. He told his mom about this in a very happy tone.

Roger rushed to his teacher and asked a question. "No, it's not the right time to cut the plant!" teacher. He discovered that the plant was so tall that he could not reach the top. He decided to wait for a little more!" replied Roger.

She put her head down into her cold lap and burst into tears. "Is this the end of me? Am I going to die alone in the cold with no one to call my family and no friend to call my home?" she asked herself. Tears flowed down her cold face like a stream of river. She took a deep breath and lay down in the snow.

The Frog Prince

One fine evening, a young princess was playing with her golden ball and reached a pond.

Suddenly, her ball fell into the pond and she started crying. A frog came to her rescue and promised to get her ball back if she allowed him to stay with her all the time. Without thinking much, the princess agreed.

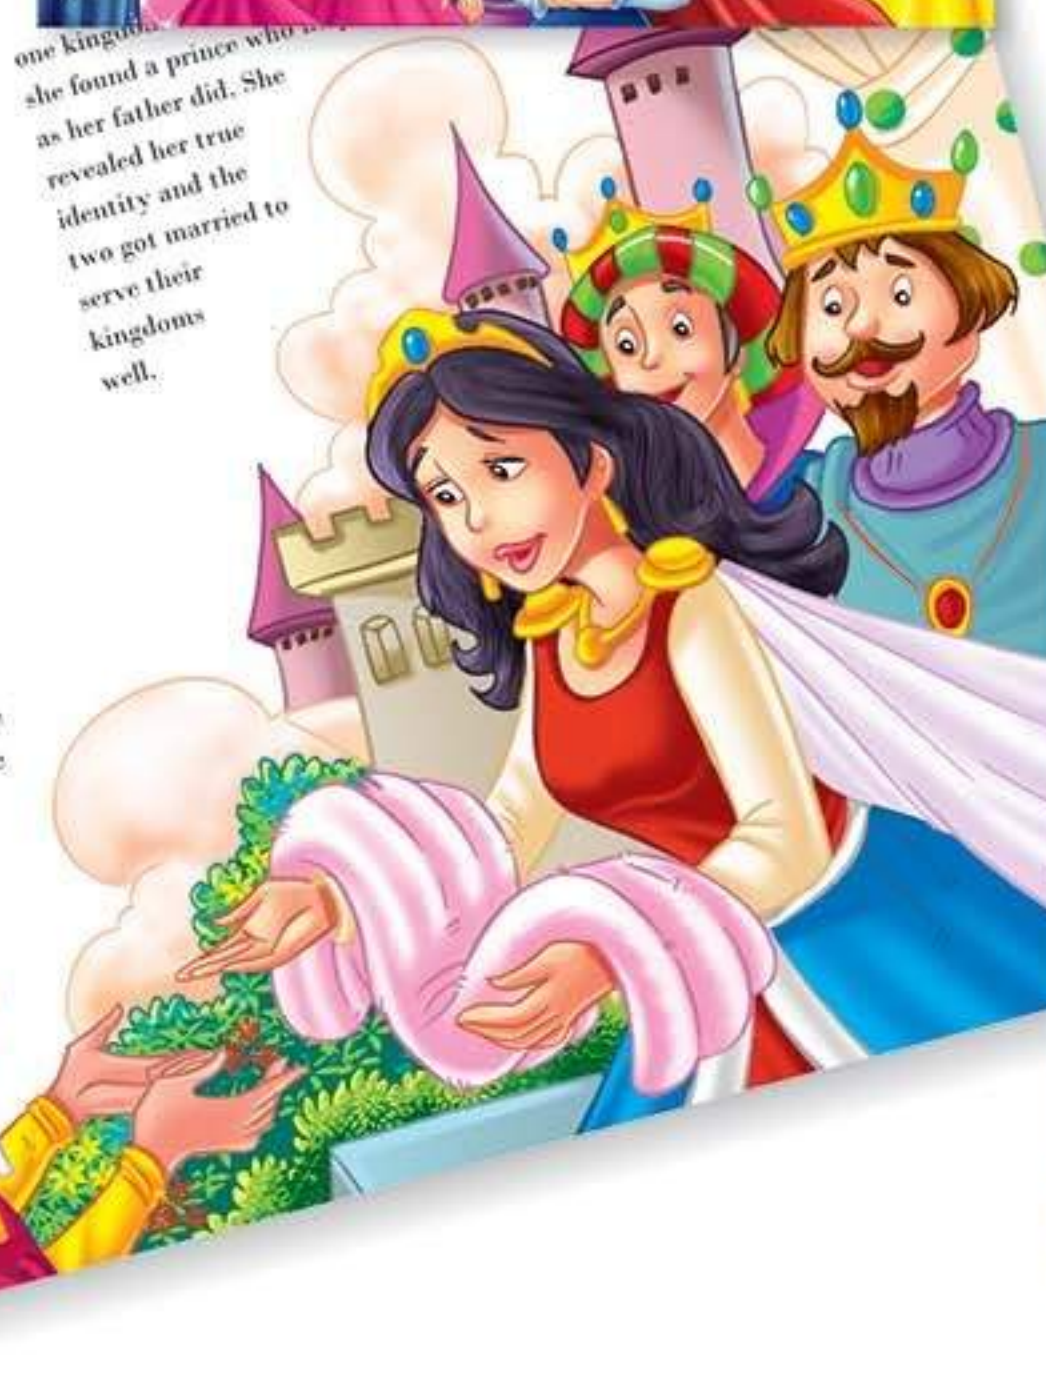

away from there, without thinking about her promise. That evening, the frog reached the palace and the princess had to let him in as she had promised. It was supper time and the frog sat at the dinner table, just next to the princess. He ate from the princess' plate and then went to sleep with her on her bed. The princess was thinking of ways to get rid of the frog, he was mighty happy.

At morning, the frog went out of the house and returned to the palace again at night and did as he wanted. The frog continued this for one more day. When the princess woke up on the third morning, she was astonished to see that instead of the frog, there was a handsome prince. The prince told her that he had been enchanted by a spiteful fairy, which had changed him into a frog. He was to be relieved from the curse if a princess agreed to keep him with her for three nights. The prince proposed the princess and she gladly accepted him. The two got married and lived happily ever after. The prince accepted the princess and she gladly lived happily ever after.

Princess and the Poor

Once upon a time, there was a kind and just king. The people of his kingdom loved him for the justice he did. He had a beautiful daughter who was also just as kind as her father. She would never let any poor go away from the palace empty-handed. The king and the queen were happy that their beautiful princess also had a kind heart and a temperament that favoured justice.

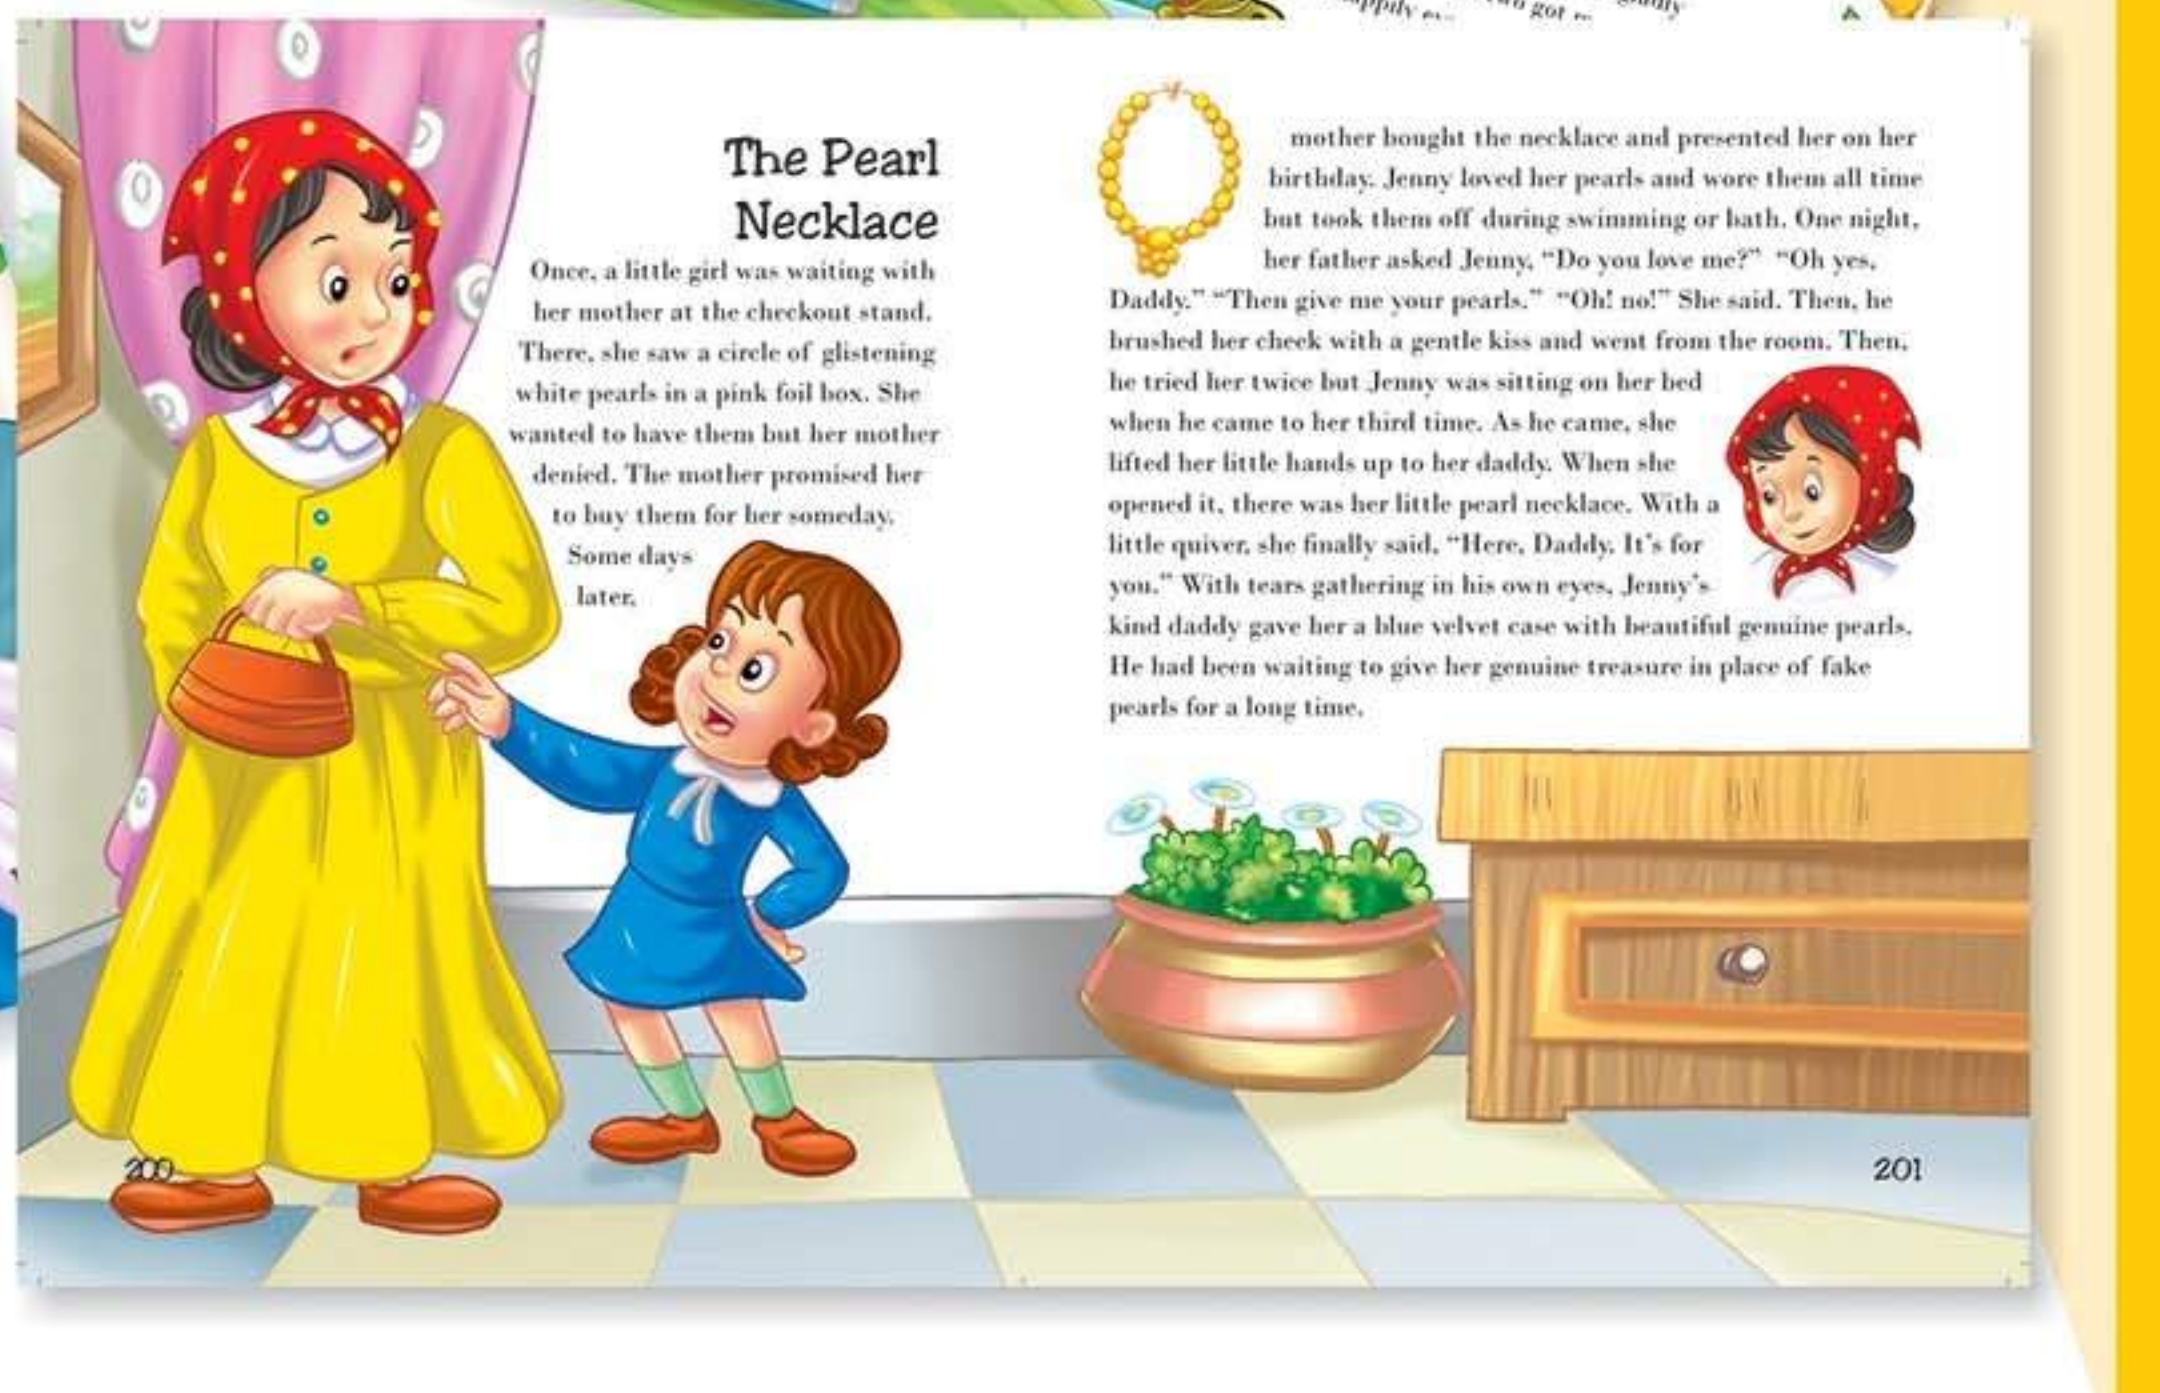

One day, the king fell ill. Many physicians were called to see him and examine what was wrong. None of them, however, were able to find out what was eating the king. In reality, the king was worried about the princess. He knew that she was capable enough to look after the kingdom, but feared about the man whom she would choose to be her husband. The king told about his concern to the princess and she assured him that everything would be fine. She left the palace in the dress of a beggar and travelled from

The Pearl Necklace

Once, a little girl was waiting with her mother at the checkout stand. There, she saw a circle of glistening white pearls in a pink foil box. She wanted to have them but her mother denied. The mother promised her to buy them for her someday. Some days later, her mother bought the necklace and presented her on her birthday. Jenny loved her pearls and wore them all time but took them off during swimming or bath. One night, her father asked Jenny, "Do you love me?" "Oh yes, Daddy." "Then give me your pearls." "Oh! no!" She said. Then, he brushed her cheek with a gentle kiss and went from the room. Then, he tried her twice but Jenny was sitting on her bed when he came to her third time. As he came, she lifted her little hands up to her daddy. When she opened it, there was her little pearl necklace. With a little quiver, she finally said, "Here, Daddy. It's for you." With tears gathering in his own eyes, Jenny's kind daddy gave her a blue velvet case with beautiful genuine pearls. He had been waiting to give her genuine treasure in place of fake pearls for a long time.

Kids often face problems when they find themselves in situations where right conduct and behavior is expected of them. Teaching them manners and the right way to conduct their behavior becomes easy when they are shown descriptive examples, along with tips to handle those situations skillfully. The book Know Manners comes up with few such volumes that would help the kids improve their confidence and move around with the right conduct and attitude.

Millions of years ago, long before there were any people, there were dinosaurs. Dinosaurs, one of several kinds of prehistoric reptiles, dominated the Earth for over 165 million years during the Mesozoic Era, but strangely went extinct 65 million years ago. Now, they are no more in reality but their existence is still felt in the museums, books and films. Children love to read about these creatures of long ago. And so, we have compiled the book about dinosaurs in a precise manner. Hope that children will find this book educational and interesting!

claiming, falsely, that he had said that Jesus would destroy the Temple and throw out the Law of Moses.

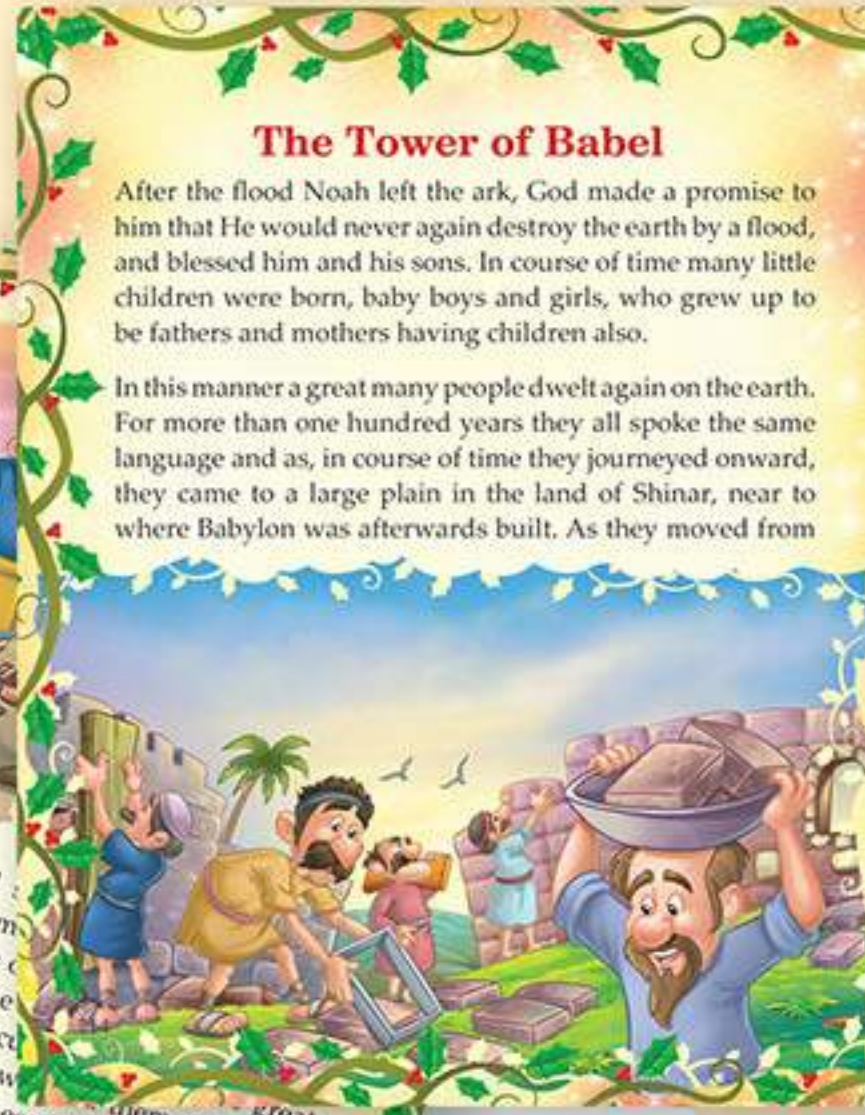

Now, the Stephen was arrested and the jealous rulers dragged him into council room where the apostles had been tried. There they surrounded Stephen and questioned him.

And when he was given in opportunity to answer for himself, Stephen was not afraid all to speak bravely to these enemies of the truth and right.

Stephen told them a wonderful story about the promises of God and how Jesus was the One who would make those promises come true.

Stephen told the wonderful promise that God made to him and Jacob and the twelve sons of Egypt. He also reminded his accusers that he was the leader of the children of Israel, who were people just like themselves who had persecuted all God's servants and that they were doing the same.

Stephen defended himself and his defense made his

The Tower of Babel

After the flood Noah left the ark, God made a promise to him that He would never again destroy the earth by a flood, and blessed him and his sons. In course of time many little children were born, baby boys and girls, who grew up to be fathers and mothers having children also.

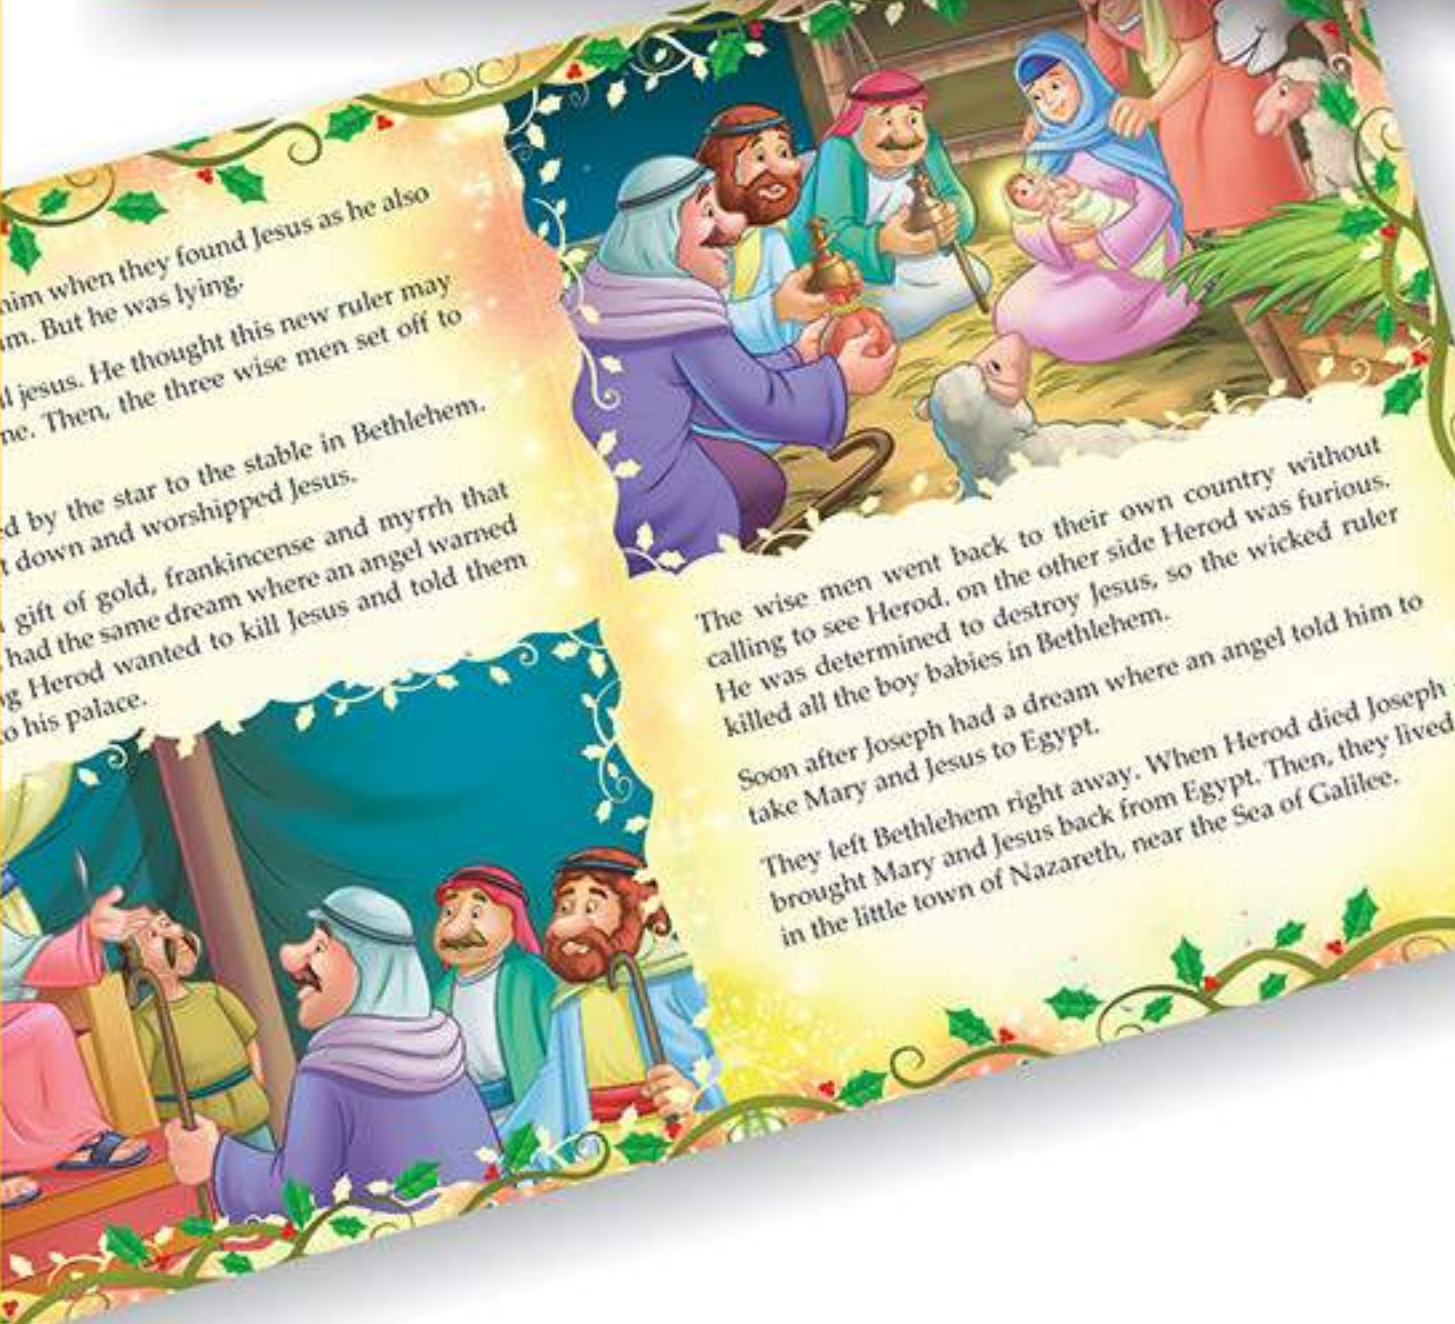

In this manner a great many people dwelt again on the earth. For more than one hundred years they all spoke the same language and as, in course of time they journeyed onward, they came to a large plain in the land of Shinar, near to where Babylon was afterwards built. As they moved from the east, they found a fertile plain by the Euphrates rivers and settled there.

The clay soil was good for bricks for mortar to hold the bricks together. "Let's make bricks to build houses."

"Aren't we great!" "Splendid!" "We are making bricks making them hard and strong and then they said, "We are absolute lords of the earth."

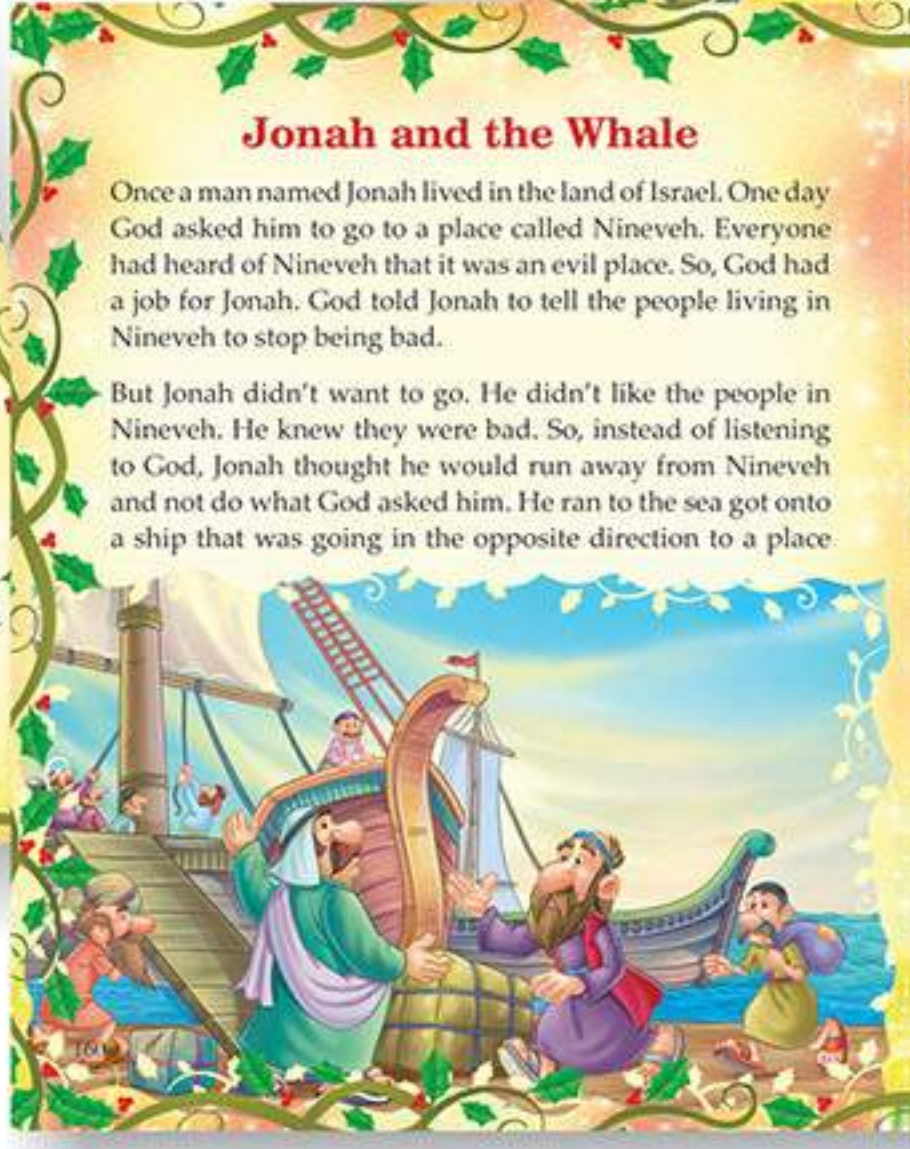

"Why, we are so wonderful, Co

The wise men went back to their own country without calling to see Herod, on the other side Herod was furious. He was determined to destroy Jesus, so the wicked ruler killed all the boy babies in Bethlehem.

Soon after Joseph had a dream where an angel told him to take Mary and Jesus to Egypt.

They left Bethlehem right away. When Herod died Joseph brought Mary and Jesus back from Egypt. Then, they lived in the little town of Nazareth, near the Sea of Galilee.

Jonah and the Whale

Once a man named Jonah lived in the land of Israel. One day God asked him to go to a place called Nineveh. Everyone had heard of Nineveh that it was an evil place. So, God had a job for Jonah. God told Jonah to tell the people living in Nineveh to stop being bad.

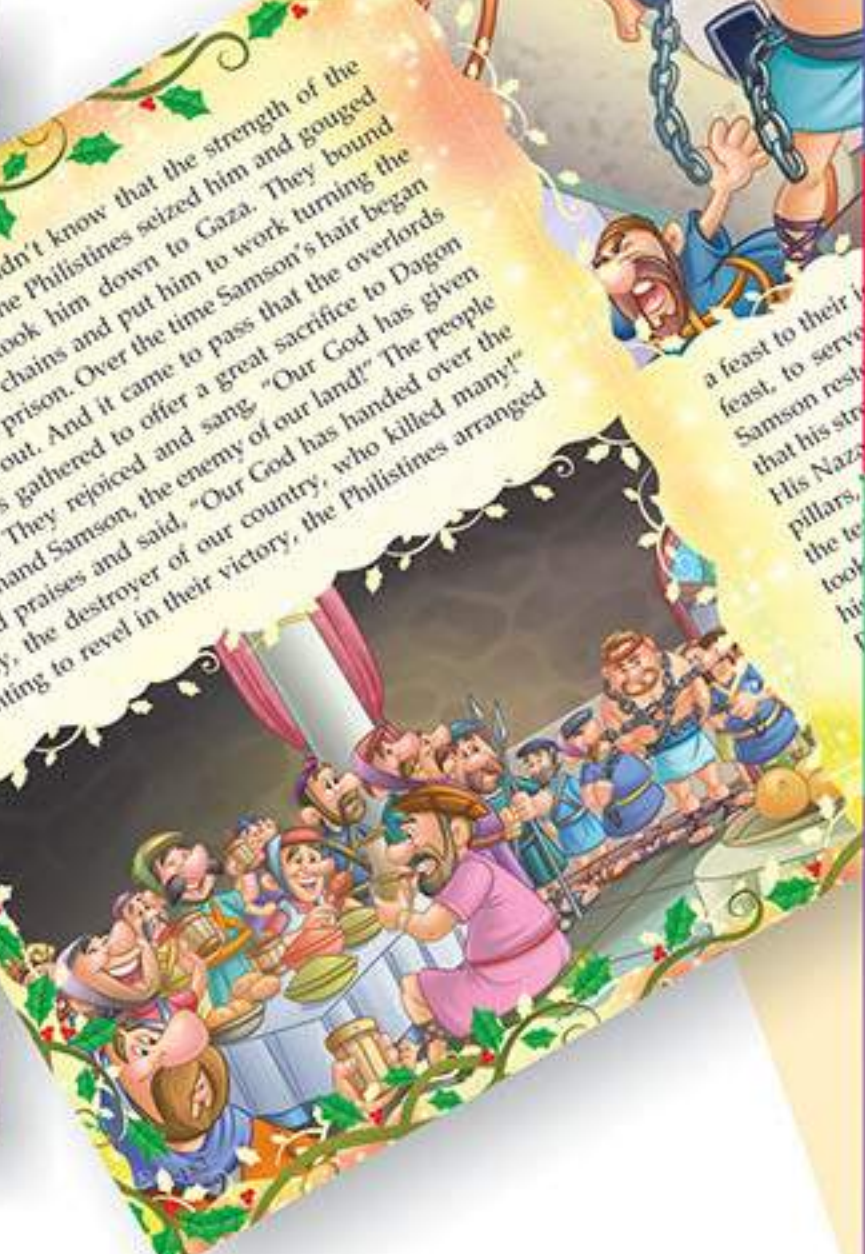

But Jonah didn't want to go. He didn't like the people in Nineveh. He knew they were bad. So, instead of listening to God, Jonah thought he would run away from Nineveh and not do what God asked him. He ran to the sea got onto a ship that was going in the opposite direction to a place called 'Tarshish'. He paid the captain, went in the part of the boat and went to sleep.

Jonah thought, "God will never find me here." But God knows everything and of course God would know where Jonah went. Shortly after the boat left the shore, God sent a terrible storm that threatened to wreck the ship.

The storm started tossing the ship around. All the men were very afraid so they started to throw all their packages and bags overboard in hopes that they wouldn't drown. Jonah realized that the storm was his punishment for not obeying God.

himself free, for he didn't know that the strength of the Lord had left him. The Philistines seized him and gouged out his eyes and took him down to Gaza. They bound him with bronze chains and put him to work turning the millstone in the prison. Over the time Samson's hair began to grow back out. And it came to pass that the overlords of Philistines gathered to offer a great sacrifice to Daggon their God. They rejoiced and sang, "Our God has given into our hand Samson, the enemy of our land!" The people shouted praises and said, "Our God has handed over the enemy, the destroyer of our country, who killed many!" Wanting to revel in their victory, the Philistines arranged

Millions of years ago, long before there were any people, there were dinosaurs. Dinosaurs, one of several kinds of prehistoric reptiles, dominated the Earth for over 165 million years during the Mesozoic Era, but strangely went extinct 65 million years ago. Now, they are no more in reality but their existence is still felt in the museums, books and films. Children love to read about these creatures of long ago. And so, we have compiled the book about dinosaurs in a 3D manner. Hope that children will find this book educational and interesting!
